Demonstration woodturning

Working with wood & lots of love

Woodturning and working with wood have become something of an obsession for Ramona Sonntag ever since she began working on very old woodturning lathes – which still stand in his workshop to this day – with the wood artist Harald Türke in Jesseritz around five years ago.

It is enchanting to see the beauty that can be found in a simple piece of wood when you set out in search of form.

But the best part is when you can feel the finished piece – sanded and waxed – in your hands.
